The whole of Dr on the subject of Domestic Servitude- Eitel's elaborate argument as to barbawhich, being almost purely a Chinese riem, if indeed it can be called an question, was fairly considered as coming argument, seems to fall through, when within the province of an official "act- it is admitted that the deportation ing" as Chinese Secretary—this last of beggars of all classes has been paper on Destitution may be reasonably steadily going on year after year, regarded as the public utterance of month after month, and day after day H. We entertain grave paupers have not a very hard time of it doubts upon the advisability of such a in China, and therefore, if they still form of official utterance, and the Home Dersist in coming back to this Colony authorities will probably do the same. In after they have been repeatedly shipped our minds there is not the slightest off to their native places, the presumption doubt that this document should have is not an unreasonable one that they are appeared, if at all, over the signature of even better off in Hongkong than elsethe Colonial Secretary, or of that of the where But, looking at the kind of Governor himself. There is not the pauperism or vagabondage that exslightest official reason in the world that perience has shown to prevail here, the Dr Eitel should be alone consulted upon learned Doctor's remarks given by way a matter of such grave moment, or that of qualifying the barbarity of British his own personal opinions should be rule here may be accepted as fairly paraded in the Gazette in English and

There are remarks. We shall deal first with those points with which issue may be taken with the learned Doctor, and notice later on those other features of his paper o which we approve. To begin with, the "women going about with begging petitions," of whom we have seen a great number, are usually importunate to a degree; the Doctor says they are not generally so. The reference in the report to the Chief Justice's late judgment on the subject of Domestic Servitude is unfortunate, because it shows than the Executive have apparently failed to make known to the Chinese any plen by which Lomestic Servitude might be carried on and regulated so as come within the terms and spirit of the law. While admitting that the number of Chinese paupers is comparatively small, The learned Doctor complains that absolutely nothing is done for them. To relieve the destitute sick has always been regarded as a part of the duty of the Tung-wah Committee. The establishment of a Dispensary for the poorer classes, at which medicines and advice might be obtained at a merely nominal price, was pressed upon H. E. the Governor soon after his arrival here; but, although warmly received at the time, not a word has since transpired on the subject. This would be a most admirable idea, if carried out; and as Hongkong is not the least charitable place in the world, it would survive if fairly put before the community. Its usefulness would be most appreciated by the deserving poor; and this leads us to remark that most of the native beggars in this Colony are professionals, and cannot therefore be so deserving as the onslaught upon the Colonial laws seems to imply. Indeed, as experience has proved, pauperism in this Colony is more vagabondage not because of the so-called barbaric and brutal laws that exist, but in spite of them-and has called forth the stringency of the measures against which Dr Eitel somewhat intemperately inveighe. The learned Doctor evidently shares with his exalted chief that dissatisfaction with everything that has gone before in the administration of Hongkong. "Prehave known nothing about the Science of Government, the Elizabethan Acts, the Poor Laws, English Common Law, or the Principles of Political Economy. lian newspapers, are invited to call at Consequently, on the erroneous assumpthe "CHINA MAIL" Office, where over tion that noverty is a crime, instead of regarding it as a misfortune, they have endeavoured to formulate in our statutebook a barbaric policy of bruta repression' anything but creditable to a Christian Government or a civilised community." Now. all this looks like sentimental nonsense when one studies the way in which the law is actually carried out. Probably the learned Doctor knows as well as any one that not a single case of severe punishment of a mendicant has ever been recorded within the memory of any fifteen or

He writes :---As regards Chinese destitutes it may fairly be generated, that, barbaric as the provisions of such local Ordinances are as those of No. 8 of 1858 and No. 8 of 1870 which authorise whipping and deportation in simple cases of mendicancy, they were no doubt prompted by the danger which does lie near, on account of the proximity of the Chinese frontier, that indistriminate and lavish aid afforded in Hongkong to destitutes, be it by the Government or by one or two peculiarities about the do- private charity, would practically act like a cument before us which call for a few magnet stirecting from all the mooks and corners of the Capton Province swarms of professional beggars and lepers to a Colony like this where money is more plentiful

The delay in the inquiry was caused by the apathy displayed on the part of the owner of the junk, who only lodged a complaint after the Iraquaddy had left on the return journey to Marseilles. On her arrival here on the 14th May, proceedings were commenced. It appeared from the evidence that the Kin-yung-le junk was proceeding down the river, and when near the Little Beacon, was run down by the traouaddy, but no lives were lost. It was proved on the evidence of M. van Corbach, the pilot on board the steamer, that the junk showed no lights, and was entirely at fault, she having plenty of room to manceuvro. On the other hand the Chinese on board the junk admitted that they saw the steamer nearly an hour before they came into collision. Under these circumstances the Court dismissed the case.
